Freedom Park’s ribbons of green space connect the Nobel Peace Prize legacies of the King Center and Carter Center to seven of the city’s most dynamic in-town neighborhoods.

The Park provides access to Atlanta Beltline and offers miles of paved trails in a space bigger than Piedmont Park. As Atlanta’s designated Art Park, Freedom Park is home to permanent art installations as well as temporary exhibits and experiences.